

The Museum of Urban Civilisation of Braşov, an example of urban regeneration

About the building

- The museum functions in a 14th century patrimony buliding located in the heart of Braşov, in the Council Square.
- The building is typical for the commercial and living spaces of the saxon community.
- Major transformations took place over the centuries, two extensive ones, worth mentioning, were in 1566 and 1835 when the facade advanced with 2 meters.
